Europe's greenest Campus

Grazing sheep on the campus grounds, garbage containers that signal you when it's time to empty them and solar panels on all the roofs of the campus buildings. Just a handful of the dozens of initiatives High Tech Campus Eindhoven is taking to become the most sustainable European Campus by 2025. And it's not just idle talk. Campus Site Management has designed a roadmap with several key performance indicators (KPI's) to measure their sustainable progress. The most promising goals of the roadmap: operating CO2 neutral by 2025 and reducing the use of fossil fuels with 50% by 2030. 'We are creating the first sustainability benchmark for campuses,' says Anne van Wijchen, Purchase and Contract manager at HTCE Site Management. 'It's our hope that other campuses around the world will follow suit and start using our benchmark model as well.'
